

H1935

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Disclosed are methods and systems of etching copper containing materials so that they have smooth and/or planar surface. In this connection, the systems and methods employ two different solutions to accomplish the etching. The first solution
5 oxidizes the surface of the copper containing material and forms a passivating film. The second solution removes the passivating film in a controllable manner.